Colour Guide to the Wild Flowers of Eastern Australia

by Denise Greig

Wildflowers turn the arid and savanna grassland areas of Australia into carpets of colour when in season. From June until September, more than 12,000 species of Australian wildflowers can be seen in full bloom. These flowers add a vibrant splash of colour to the landscape, making it a stunning sight for nature lovers and photographers alike.